

Dear Friends,

Here are some thoughts for the weekend:

- Some of you have been wondering about where things stand with regard to live-streaming our weekend Masses. Rest assured that we are making progress toward this goal. It is taking time to accomplish, but at some point we will be live-streaming our weekend Masses. I will keep you posted.
- We now have new filters for our church air conditioning which are effective against viruses such as Covid. I hope this gives you an added sense of security when you come to Mass.
- Thank you for your continued cooperation when it comes to wearing your masks in church.
- We still have a lot of extra copies of Matthew Kelly's book, "Rediscover Jesus." Please help yourself to more copies. Feel free to give them to family and friends.
- A friendly reminder: if you feel sick, even in the slightest way, please refrain from coming to Mass. We need to continue to do our part to keep each other healthy. Thanks!

Have a blessed week!

Fr. Najim
